OBITUARY.

George W. Butts. George W. Butts.

George W. Butts, for many years a resident of this town, died at his home in Williamsville Friday morning, aged 79. Mr. Butts has been feeble for a long time, but has managed to get about and frequently came to Danielson on business, his last visit being only a few days ago. Wednesday morning while returning from the barn to the house he fell, striking his head. It is also believed that he was internally injured. The shock of being injured probably caused his death.

Mr. Butts leaves one son, George, three daughters, Mrs. Edna Dragon of Attawaugan, Mrs. Charles Hopkins of Danielson and Mrs. A. W. Barber of Putnam.

Honor Paid Oliver W. Bowen. Business was practically suspended in Danielson between 2 and 3 o'clock Friday afternoon out of respect to Oliver W. FUNERAL.

Oliver W. Bowen. The funeral of Oliver W. Bowen was held from his home on Reynolds street Friday afternoon, with services at the Congregational church at 2 o'clock. Rev. Clarence H. Barber, the pastor, was the officiating clergyman, assisted by Rev. F. J. Marsh of Upton, Mass. The large number that were present included the members of the Masonic fraternities with which the deceased was sfiliated, the county commissioners members of the town and borough government, business as-sociates of a score of years, members of other organizations with which he was identified and many friends from this and all the surrounding towns. State Highway Commissioner J. H. MacDonald and Representative Eugene H. Kelsey, chief clerk of the commission were present.

Both clergymen paid fine tributes to the deceased.

The musical part of the service, arranged by Marcus Wood, included the singing of Abide With Me by a mixed quartette—Misses Helen Leavens and Marion D. Chollar, and Albert Day and Marion D. Chollar, and Albert Day and W. H. Barron—the solo, Thy Will Be Done, Miss Leavens, and a duet, Miss Chollar and Everett O. Wood. Miss Annie Hutchins was organist.

The members of Moriah lodge, Capt. E. L. Darbie marshal, occupied pews along the middle aisle.

Three Boys Steal Everything from Freezer of Ice Cream to Signal Light-$5,000 Breach of Promise Suit-Pages of King Arthur Going to Willimantic.

George Miller, 14, Eugene Bellerose, 15, and Isadore Moskovitz, 16, all of 15, and Isadore Moskovitz, 16, all of Putnam, will be presented in the city court this (Saturday) morning with the longest list of counts—about 30 in each instance—against them, of any three prisoners arraigned here for a long time.

The principal part of their law-breaking has been petty thieving and they have been at it about a mouth. They have operated in many parts of the city and have managed to set away the city and have managed to get away with a bunch of stuff. Among the things stolen are 14 umbrellas, 5 horse blankets, a lap robe, roller skates, strawberries (in boxes), cooked chickens (from veranda refrigerators), onehalf a case of laundry soap, milk from bottles left at houses, a Panama hat, a dress length of cloth, a railroad sig-nal light from the gates at the May street crossing sups and saucers, an axe, an ice cream freezer filled with axe, an ice cream freezer filled with cream, etc., etc.

They were very busy boys during May, according to their confessions. They broke into the Gary schoolhouse and mussed up the place, spilling a quart of ink on the floor. They pulled up garden stuff just for the mere deviltry of the thing, and induiged in enough other stunts to keep the ears of the police tingling with complaints of the police tingling with comp from all quarters of the city. They do not appear to be very sorry about it either.

Captain Murray has been on their trail all the time and the round-up followed. They stole from teams on the streets, from verandas and when-ever opportunity offered. They were so slick in doing the disappearing act as to mystify the officers, but the rid-dle of how they did it is now solved. It was easy for them to flash out of It was easy for them to flash out of the business section and under a shed

Among the stunts they pulled off was to steal a freezer of ice cream

a Sunday school class party. Two of the boys ate three quarts.
